NEW HOSPITAL CHAPEL.

DEDICATION SERVICES AT CAUSEWAY BAY.

FR. JOY'S ADDRESS.

The magnificent new chapel erected within the precincts of the premises of the St. Paul's Institution at Causeway Bay, was opened by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Valtorta on Saturday morning.

Mgr. Seguin, Vicar Apostolic of Kweichow, officiated during the afternoon's ceremony, which was participated in by no less than six Bishops, some of whom came specially for the occasion. The other Bishops supporting Mgr. Seguin within the altar rails, were Mgr. Rayssac, Vicar Apostolic of Swatow, Mgr. Valtorta, Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong, Mgr. Deswaziere, Superior of the House of Nazareth, Pokfulam, Mgr. Ford, Prefect Apostolic of Kaitangchow and Mgr. Penicaut, Elect Bishop of Pakhoi.

Others present were the priests of the Italian, French, Spanish and American Missions in Hongkong, the Jesuit Fathers, members of the Salesian Congregation and the Chinese clergy.

The afternoon's function, which was very impressive and picturesque, opened with a procession, headed by the banner of the Assile de la Sainte Enfance. Among those taking part were the Chinese girls of the Orphanage, the Children of Mary of the School, and other smaller children of the School. Last in the procession were the Bishops and Clergy, wearing full vestments.

The Band of the St. Louis Industrial School, of the Salesian Congregation, played appropriate music.

After the ceremony, the gathering adjourned to the main Convent building where tea was served.

Father Joy's Address.

Before the thanksgiving service commenced, the Rev. Father P. J. Joy, S.J., addressed the large Congregation assembled, as follows:

My dear Brethren,—We have come together this evening to join with the Sisters of St. Paul of Chartres in a solemn act of thanksgiving for the blessing that has been given this morning to this beautiful chapel dedicated to Christ the King.

The Chapel itself is but the completion of a great work which began in 1914 when the Sisters, finding the old French Convent at Wanchai too small for their growing needs, acquired the old Hongkong Cotton Mills at Causeway Bay and set about converting them into the splendid group of institutions that you see here to-day.

Two names will be forever linked with that great project. The name of Mother Felicie, who guided the destinies of the Institution from 1891 at Wanchai and who watched over the development of this new venture at Causeway Bay until June 1926 when death deprived the Sisters of her wonderful services.

Father Robert's Services.

The other name is that of Father Robert. Only his genius could have foreseen the possibility of converting the old Cotton Mills into what they are to-day, and it is due to his untiring zeal and self-sacrifice that from unpromising material we have to-day the Hospital, the Anglo-French School, the Chinese School, the Lecture and Cinema Hall, the Orphanage, the Nursing Home, the Sisters' Convent, and Novitiate for Chinese Sisters. As he was devising means for the building of the Chapel, he had to return to France in obedience to a call to even more important service at the headquarters of his Congregation. By a happy coincidence, he was passing through Hongkong when Bishop Valtorta laid the foundation of this Chapel. The Sisters would gladly see him here to-day,

OBITUARY.

DEATH OF FORMER LOCAL LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER.

Many old residents of the Colony will remember Mr. Charles Edwin Nicholas, principal lighthouse keeper, Green Island Lighthouse, who passed away at home last month. News of his death has just been received.

The late Mr. Nicholas retired on pension in 1916 and settled down at St. Albans, England, where he passed away on April 8 at the age of 69 years.

Mr. Nicholas came out to Hongkong in 1892 on appointment as second lighthouse keeper, which position he held until promoted to principal lighthouse keeper in 1906. His friends here will regret to hear of his death and will extend sympathy to Mrs. Nicholas in her bereavement.

too, that they might once more express their thanks to him for his generous services.

But if the Fathers of the Missions Estrangeres deprived the Sisters of Father Robert's assistance, they were far from withdrawing that generous help to the Sisters which they have always given. Through the kindness of the Superior of the Precursor in Hongkong, Father Vircondelet was enabled to take up the work left unfinished by Father Robert, and his untiring zeal and energy was poured out in efforts to make this Chapel worthy of its noble setting.

Tribute to Mr. Chanatong.

In Mr. Joseph V. Chanatong he found one whose devotedness to the work of the Sisters he well knew. With the greatest disinterestedness Mr. Chanatong placed his great gifts at the services of the Sisters without the slightest remuneration. He it was that conceived the plan of this beautiful building, and executed it in collaboration with the Credit Foncier d'Extreme Orient. It will remain a monument to his ability and his generosity.

Other kind friends of the Sisters were Mr. William Gardner who has two daughters serving as Sisters in the Institution at Hongkong. To Mr. Gardner the Sisters are indebted for the beautiful statue of the Sacred Heart.

To the children of Mary of the Anglo-French School they are indebted for the beautiful statue of Mary Immaculate.

On behalf of the Sisters, it is my duty to tell them all and all the other friends (too numerous to be mentioned) who have helped in this work, how deeply grateful the Sisters are for their generous service and gifts.

That God—who leaves unrequited not even the cup of cold water given in His Name—may reward them abundantly, will be the Sisters' constant prayer.

Nor must we omit from this list of helpers those who carried out the work of construction—the contractors, Messrs. Tam Pui San and Co., Mr. A. Vannini to whose credit is the execution of the marble and terrazzo work; to Mr. William C. Blackett for his work in connexion with the organ; to the General Electric Co., for the electric installation and fittings—all these have given the Sisters complete satisfaction and have earned their gratitude by the patience and thoroughness with which they carried out their work in every detail. On behalf of the Sisters, I wish to thank them.

Appropriate Dedication.

This Chapel has been dedicated to Christ the King. No dedication could be more appropriate. Christ came on earth to found a Kingdom that should spread to the ends of the earth, embrace all peoples and last forever. Unlike other Kingdoms, it should conquer not by armed forces but by charity. The only blood spilt in its conquests would be the blood of its own martyrs, giving their lives, like the Master, for their friends.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT CATHEDRAL.

ATTENDED BY GOVERNOR AND LADY PEEL.

A special form of morning service was used at St. John's Cathedral yesterday morning on the occasion of the arrival in the Colony of the new Governor, His Excellency Sir William Peel, when an address was delivered by the Dean. His Excellency and Lady Peel arrived a few minutes before the service was timed to start and were met by the Dean and Mr. P. Jacks, secretary of the Trustees of the Church of England, who conducted them to their seats. The congregation then prayed for His Excellency and Lady Peel that grace and strength might be vouchsafed to them during their term of office.

The Cathedral was well filled for the service in which six clergy took part. They were the Dean, the Rev. H. V. Koop, the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, the Rev. C. B. Shann, the Rev. E. Evans and the Rev. E. W. L. Martin. The service was broadcast.

The choir entered by the West Door at the opening, singing "Glorious things of Thee are spoken, Zion City of our God." At the conclusion of this hymn, the Dean moved to the Chancel step, and speaking in the name of the Lord Bishop, clergy and people of the diocese, said: Your Excellency, called by the grace of God and the will of our Sovereign Lord King George to the office and dignity of Governor of this Colony We bid you welcome to this Cathedral Church, yours and ours. May He who gave unto his disciples a vision of the city of God enlighten and guide your mind with the spirit of wisdom. And may the blessing of the Father be upon this Colony through all the days of your authority for Him and his servant George our King.

The service then proceeded according to the order of Morning Prayer. The Rev. H. V. Koop, from a faldstool in the Nave, conducted the Colonial Litany, this being followed by The Grace.

The service concluded with the peace version of the National Anthem, and the Blessing, after which His Excellency and Lady Peel, preceded by the choir, left the Cathedral by the West Door.

Those who aspired to pre-eminence in this Kingdom should be pre-eminence in sacrifice and in service of others. Its honoured citizens should not be the rich or the learned or those that excelled in any other gift but the poor, the sick, those in distress, little children.

Twenty centuries have passed since the Carpenter of Nazareth sent a few ignorant fishermen from an obscure province of the Roman Empire to spread this Kingdom.

What did Pilate, with his knowledge of imperial methods, think of the prospects of such a programme of imperial expansion? We know what Herod thought of it—he clothed the Nazarene in a fool's garment and sent him back to Pilate. Even the Roman soldiers, who knew what empire building meant, could see nothing in it but matter for a piece of savage horse-play.

Yet Pilate would now be forgotten, had his memory not been preserved in the books of this strange Kingdom. So would Herod. The Roman Empire has long since been reduced to a chapter in a school-boys' history book.

And we are here to-day to witness the entry of Christ into a little corner of his Kingdom in a little island far beyond any frontiers that the Imperial might of Rome had ever reached or even dreamt of. And Christ's Kingdom has endured in all the centuries that intervened.

Love and Charity.

Is the Kingdom still as Christ conceived it? You have only to look at this little replica which we have here in Causeway Bay. Who are the honoured citizens within its walls? Go to the Orphanage, the Creche, the Schools,

LOCAL WEDDING.

CEREMONY AT KOWLOON UNION CHURCH.

Rev. J. Horace Johnston, minister of Kowloon Union Church, officiated at a very pretty wedding ceremony at the Church on Saturday afternoon when Miss Norah Cossar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Trinity, Edinburgh, was married to Mr. Edgar L. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Williams, of Blackheath.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. J. E. Anderson, was charmingly gowned in a period dress of shaded pink georgette, crinoline, trimmed with beige lace, and a picture hat. She carried a Victorian posy. She was attended by Miss K. Murphy, bridesmaid, who was dressed in Alice blue, georgette, trimmed with white starred silk lace. The bridesmaid's bouquet was a sheaf of pale pink carnations.

Mrs. E. O. Murphy, the Matron of Honour, wore a black silk lace dress.

The bridegroom was accompanied by Mr. J. Hughes as "best man." Mr. H. J. Fountain, the organist, played appropriate music both before and at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The service over, the bridal party repaired to Empress Lodge, where the reception was held. Here they received the felicitations of their many friends.

The honeymoon is being spent at Repulse Bay, the bride's going away dress being a rainbow shaded chiffon frock.

Chinese Wedding.

The marriage arranged between Mr. Lee Pui-tong, B.A. of Hongkong University, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gock-chew and Miss Pau Yuk-king, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pau Chung-yiu, was solemnised by the Rev. Frank Short at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, on Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was attended by many Chinese friends and a number of professors and undergraduates of the University.

The bride, who was beautifully dressed in silver brocade with white georgette and carried a sheaf of Easter lilies, was given away by her father. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Misses Rose Lee and Pansy Abbas. The flower girls were Misses Kwok Wai-chun and Tsai Po-yin. The mother of the bride was attired in ceremonial Chinese costume. The best man was Mr. Mak Kai-hung, and the groomsmen Mr. Lee Cheuk-kuen.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the bridegroom's residence, Calne Road, followed by a dinner at the Tung Yat Restaurant, West Point, both functions being attended by large numbers of friends.

the Hospital and you will see. Where Christ rules to-day, as ever, there the place of honour is for the poor, the sick, the suffering, the little ones.

Do those who hold the places of authority in this Kingdom still conceive their duty to be one of service of the least ones? Do they still leave father and mother and home and friends and all things for Christ's sake? Look at the lives of the Sisters in the various departments of this Convent of Causeway Bay and you will find an answer to your question.

Truly this Chapel, in the midst of such a host of work of charity and self-sacrifice is fittingly dedicated to Christ the King. God grant that Christ present here may pour into the souls of all who come here that same spirit of love and charity. Never was the world so much in need of re-establishing the reign of Christ in the Kingdom of Christ.

We, who are gathered here to join with the Sisters in this act of thanksgiving, will pray that Christ the King may increase in them daily that spirit which has already been so fruitful and may increase daily the fruitfulness of this work begun and carried out to the honour of His name.

Baby

The danger of Improper Feeding

BABIES are frequently over-fed. Their capacity for food is very small—at birth 1 oz. and at 2 months 3 oz. Remember also it is the amount of food digested that nourishes.

Do not feed Baby just because he cries—probably the reason is indigestion from overfeeding, not hunger. It is important to get the nature of the food right as well as the quantity.

AMERICAN NAVAL PROGRAMME.

OPPOSITION TO BIG BUILDING.

Washington, May 10.

Advocating a conservative Naval construction programme in opposition to the Bill published last night by Mr. Britten, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, Mr. French, chairman of the Appropriations Sub-Committee, which drafts the annual Naval Supply Bill, said that the United States would be in a stronger position for the proposed Naval Conference in 1935 if they did not build up to the limits of the London Treaty, which, he declared, would cost almost a thousand million dollars.

Mr. French contended that by not building to the authorised limits the United States could more readily agree at the next conference to a further reduction which could be effected without scrapping new ships.

On the contrary, if the categories were not filled up to the limits the nation would be able to take advantage of the contemporaneous improvements in designs or methods of warfare.

Mr. Britten, however, was not moved by the plea put forward by Mr. French and introduced his Bill providing for an expenditure of $200,000,000 for the construction of warships which, he says, is necessary to establish American parity with Great Britain.

It's the turnover that counts!

SIR CHARLES STARMER recently stated at the Publicity Club of Glasgow, that advertising is the necessary fertiliser to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

Sir Charles might have taken the argument to a more logical climax.

Advertising represents the ground in which the merchant sows the seeds which are to yield his profit in due season.

But the ground must be carefully chosen if the best results are to be secured.

That is why the enterprising advertiser avoids stale ground.

It must be fresh.....fertile!

The daily newspaper is ever fresh, ever of interest to the readers, and it naturally follows that the greater the number of daily readers, the greater the measure of success from each advertising message.....from each seed planted.

Every Advertisement in a Newspaper is a seed well planted.

WOMAN'S WORLD FOR OUR LADY READERS.

Dancing Beauty.

GIRLS MUST BE PERFECTLY GROOMED.

The girl who dances must be perfectly groomed for the brilliance of the electric lighting beneath which she dances shows up every tiny defect.

Her hair, more than anything else, must be in perfect order. This is only achieved by the regular brushing advised by all the experts, and by scrupulous attention to shampooing. It is useless to shampoo often if it is not done thoroughly. Where the lather is not properly removed the hair will look lifeless and greasy within a day or so, so take care always to add a little ammonia or lemon juice to the rinsing water, so that the soap globules will be neutralised.

A too frequent application of the frons has a tendency to make the hair brittle and without gloss. If a permanent wave cannot be acquired it is better to use curling pins and a setting lotion, or else rely upon the real beauty of hair which is thick and burnished even if straight.

Complexion Trouble.

Too frequent powdering is the cause of a great deal of complexion trouble. To remedy the enlarged pores the face should be well washed every night before retiring, and after thorough cleansing a good astringent lotion should be applied. Cucumber and lemon lotions are useful, and best of all is a piece of ice if it can be obtained. It should be folded in a piece of muslin and rubbed gently all over the face. Regular ice treatment will restore the fine texture of almost any skin which has been ruined by careless powdering.

Liquid powder is far better to use in the dance room. It is more lasting and less harmful in its effects. Moreover, it does not rub off and attach itself to the partner's clothing so readily as the other kind. Tired and painful feet detract considerably from the dancing girl's appearance. They cause fretful lines to appear about the eyes and mouth and also prevent graceful movement. It is best to have a foot bath before dressing for the dance. To the bath may be added a tablespoonful of carbonate of soda and a similar quantity of boracic crystals. A good medicated powder should then be shaken into the stocking feet. If a home-made powder is preferred it can be made up of equal quantities of powdered orris root, boracic powder, and carbonate of soda.

The hands can be kept in order by rubbing in a good cold cream

CHOCOLATE TART.

Line a plate or open tart-tin with short crust or flaky pastry and bake. Mix a tablespoonful each of cornflour and grated chocolate to a smooth paste with a little water, return to the pan, and cook for 5 minutes while stirring. Cool slightly. Beat up the yolks of 2 eggs with 1½ oz. of caster sugar, stir them to the chocolate mixture, add 1 oz. of butter, bit by bit, and vanilla essence. Put this into the pastry-case, and return to the oven to just set the eggs (10 to 15 minutes). When the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth stir in a tablespoonful of caster sugar and a few drops of vanilla essence, spread this over the tart, dredge with caster sugar, and just brown lightly in the oven. Serve hot or cold.

after washing in hot water. When the cream has been absorbed apply a little methylated spirit or eau-de-Cologne.

Lastly, the dancing girl should not be over lavish in her use of perfume. She should remember that a subtle suggestion of fragrance is far more alluring than an overdose of sweetness.

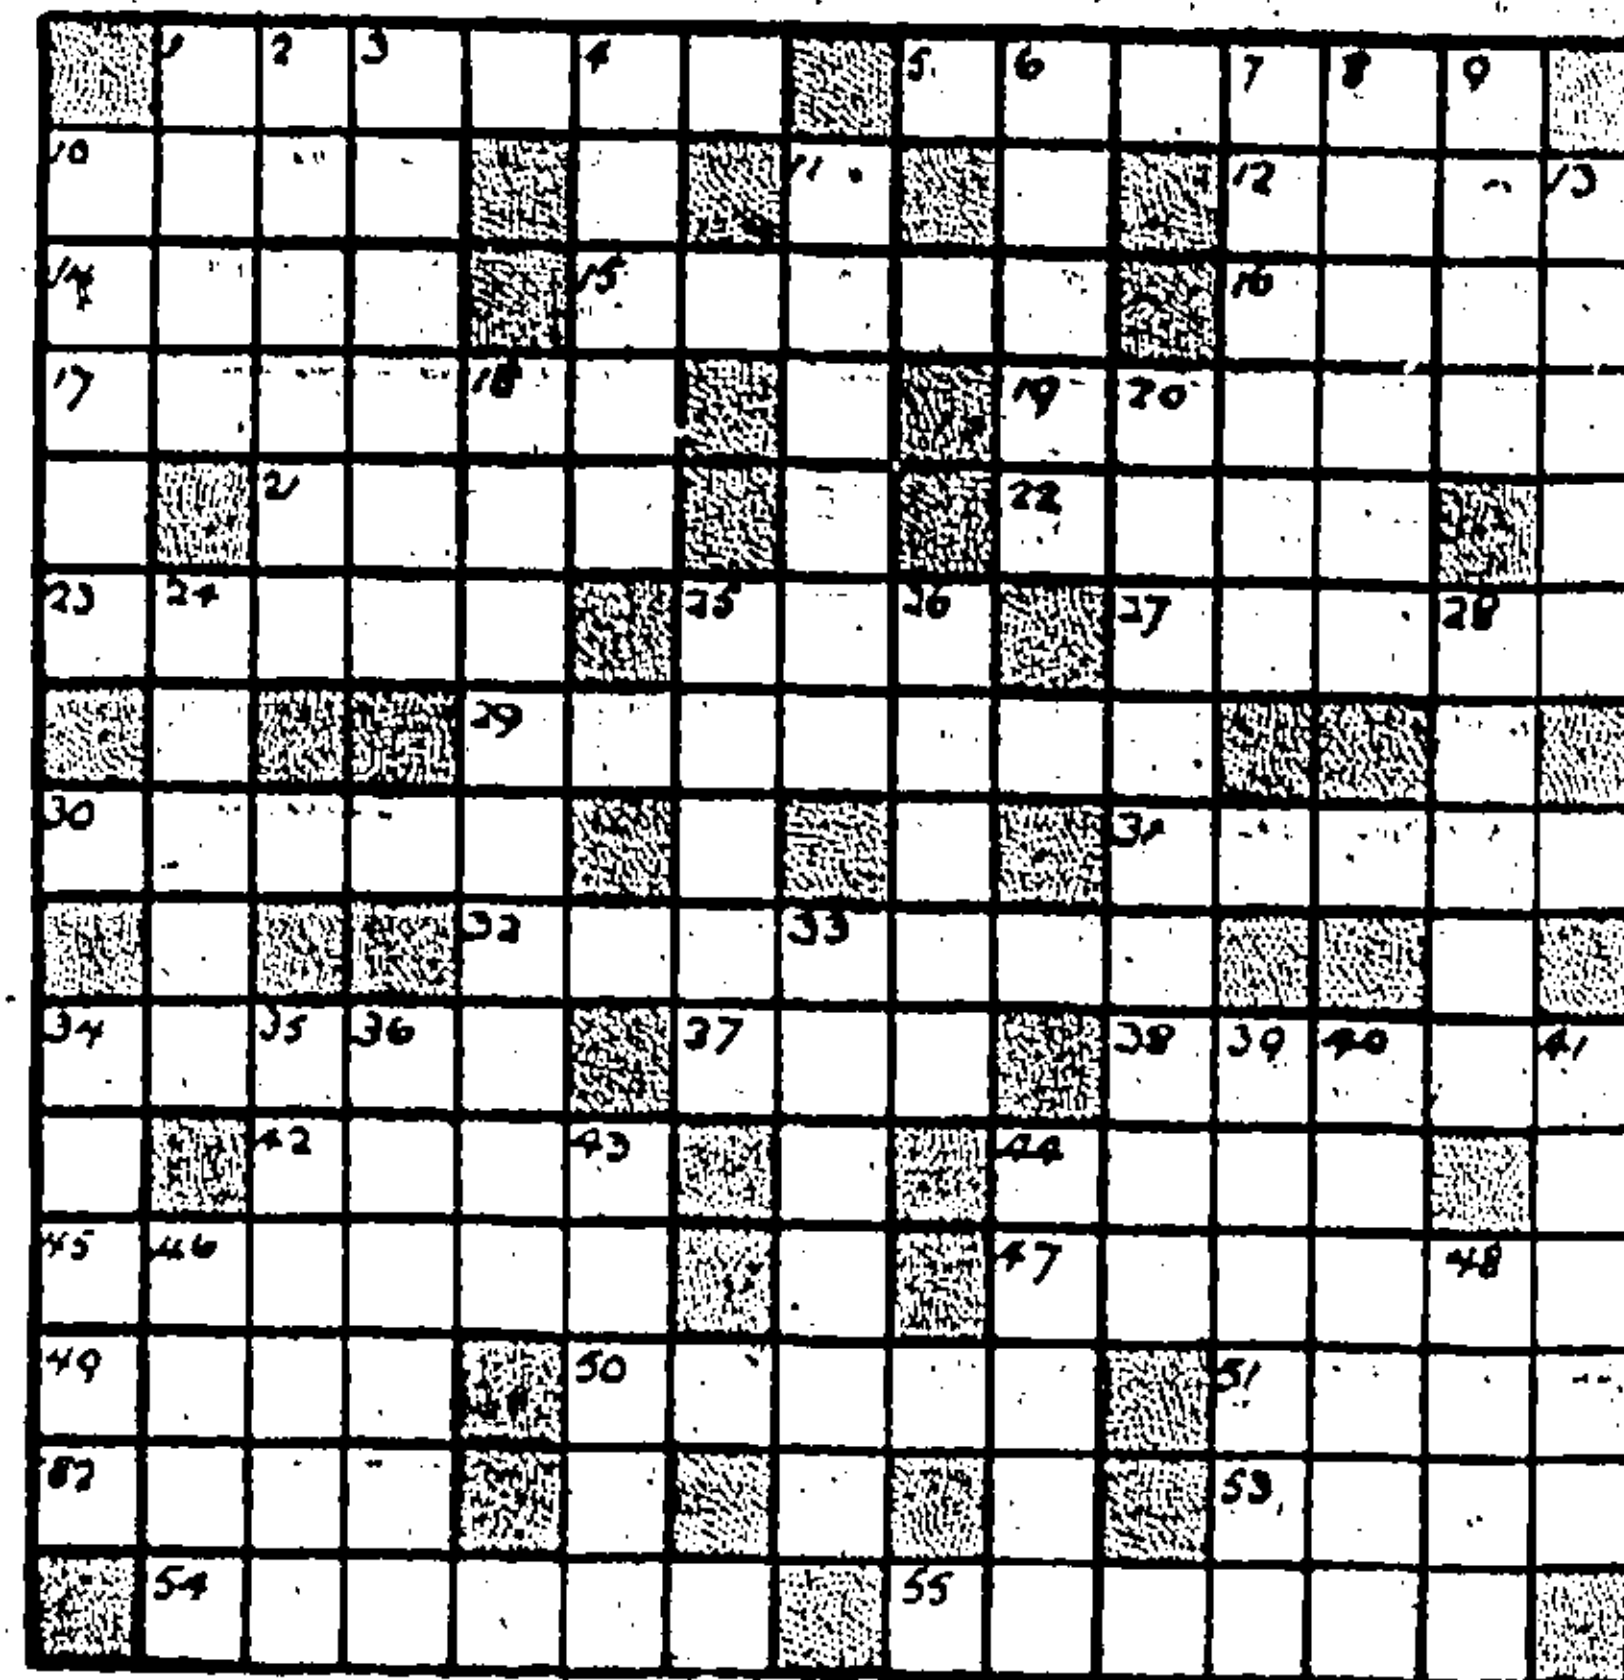

Tennis Frocks.

THE NEWEST MODELS.

Tennis girls who take their game seriously have been perturbed to learn that even sports clothes have longer skirts, and it has been reported that tennis dresses are six inches below the knee. But the game is more than the dress, and we are positively certain that, Paris notwithstanding, not a soul among us will appear on the courts with anything approaching a longish skirt.

But in sports fashions there is another and a brighter item, and that is the introduction of the "divided" tennis dress by Reville. It is so cleverly designed that both at rest and in movement it is very difficult to tell that the skirt is divided. It appears only to have a deep wrap-over both back and front, and, of course, it permits absolute freedom to the wearer, no matter how strenuous the game. Fortunately for the tennis enthusiast of moderate means, copies of this new model are on sale made in artificial silk at extremely reasonable prices.

CINEMA NOTES.

WILL ROGERS IN TALKIE AT QUEEN'S.

Coming with a great reputation from Broadway and Hollywood as a stage and screen actor, Will Rogers made his debut in the new Fox talkie, entitled "They Had To See Paris," a musical drama which was screened at the Queen's Theatre yesterday to crowded houses. This is the first time this celebrated humorist of the stage has been seen and heard in a talkie in Hongkong.

The story deals with an owner of a garage in Oklahoma who becomes a millionaire overnight when he discovers oil in his property. His visit to Paris with an ambitious wife and a beautiful daughter and the entanglement in which the members of the family become involved form the theme of an amusing story.

Supporting Will Rogers are Irene Rich, a famous screen actress, and Marguerite Churchill, who has recently won a big reputation in the talkies. Will Rogers takes the part of the father and his acting leave nothing to be desired. The picture will be shown until to-morrow. A Fox Movietone news reel is included in the programme.

Warsaw, May 10.

On the occasion of the Moslem Festival of Courbanbarim, Mohammedans in Warsaw passed a resolution appealing to Mohammedan rulers, the Pope and the Archbishop of Canterbury to protect the Moslem religion in Russia from persecution by the Soviet Government, which has closed 30,000 mosques throughout Russia.—Reuter.

Denny, should not miss the opportunity of seeing "His Lucky Day," the current feature at the World Theatre, showing for the last time to-day. The story centres around the love affairs of a real estate agent and a gang of society crooks. The former is courting the daughter of a retired millionaire while the crooks are interested in a collection of curios owned by the millionaire. How the plot works out is told in an amusing manner, similar to former comedy dramas by Denny.

Rayne Du Val, a new comer to the screen, takes the part of the heroine, while familiar screen stars included in the strong cast are Otis Harlan, Cissy Fitzgerald, Harvey Clark and Tom O'Brien.

A WORLD PROBLEM.

The unemployment problem continues to be the subject of much comment in the Home newspapers, most of which agree that the situation shows little signs of improvement. Whilst it is true, as one of the Liberal organs has stated, that the Government is not responsible for the present state of unemployment, it cannot be denied that when Labour took office its leaders talked rather glibly of solving the problem. A year's experience, however, has shown the Government and everybody else that the matter is one which cannot, by its very nature, be quickly adjusted.
There are so many contributory factors involved, a great many of which will continue to operate until a general revival of trade is experienced.The fact that the weekly return of Britain's idle workers tend to increase rather than otherwise is too serious a matter to be made the subject of party politics, although in passing it should be said that the Labourites have probably by this time come to realise that much of their criticism of the Conservatives when the latter were in office was not justified. When we come to look for the cause, it is apparent that the appreciation of gold, the world fall in commodity prices, and the initial consequences of industrial rationalisation are the real villains of the piece. But whilst it is useless to blame the Government, a duty does devolve upon it to see that further amendments are made to the system of unemployment insurance so as to put it on a more satisfactory basis. Recently, in the House of Commons, Mr.
Churchill and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland agreed that the present hybrid of dole and insurance demands radical amendment, and it is obvious that the relations between poor relief and unemploy-ment insurance are in no less need of overhaul. An interesting contribution to the unemployment problem was made by Sir Charles Addis recently in an address
before the Institute of Bankers.
"The appreciation of gold," he said, "has become a serious menace," and the persistent fall
in prices—they have declined by 25 per cent. during the past five years—"is crippling industry and taking the heart out of the business pioneer." Whilst admitting that non-monetary factors have played a part, Sir Charles emphasised the importance of monetary causes. A solution must be sought in economising the use of gold, a task in which the part of the new Bank of International Settlements is vital. Indeed, Sir Charles regards as the Bank's most important immediate function
the promotion of the co-operation of central banks which the Young Committee "believe to be essential to the continued stability of the world's economic structure."Sufficient has been written to show that this problem of unemployment is most complex and difficult of treatment, and that it is one which is affecting most countries of the world at the present time. So far as Britain is concerned, the mere tinkering with unemployment insurance will not suffice, necessary as reforms are, but something could be done by the framing and vigorous execution of a policy of national development which will both improve the nation's resources and take up the slack while industrial rationalisation is completed. But in the large sense in which the problem affects all countries,
there would seem to be need for concerted effort to attain stable price levels.

Sight and Sound.

The fact appears to have escaped notice that sound synchronisation with sight has been developed about the same time as sight synchronisation with sound.
The human voice has now been added to the cinema film and no little progress has been made in adding television to speech as broadcast through the ether. Of the two problems the latter undoubtedly presents by far the bigger difficulties and this accounts for the fact that this synchronisation has been less rapid than the other form which is now familiar to peoples throughout the world. Talking films are now well established, their novelty has worn off and they are accepted as all new things are in time accepted. The synchronisation of broadcast sound and sight, however, is still a rare novelty, but its future successful development was demonstrated recently in England when such a conservative body as the B.B.C. had a dual experimental transmission, those taking part being seen as well as heard. Thus the simultaneity of vision and speech which has now become so familiar on the films has been applied to radio. This will undoubtedly add a further zest to life, but we refuse to believe that it will have the sweeping consequences predicted by some enthusiasts. It has been prophesied that when radio telephony and television are working in unity together nobody will bother to attend race meetings or football matches, to read newspapers or books, or to visit theatres and music halls. It is prophesied that everyone will secure all the news, sport and amusement they require in their own homes. This would be unfortunate if it were to happen, but we venture to predict that it will not—simply because the normal human being is of an active and not a passive disposition, and would rather seek and obtain experience for himself than sit quietly and await the representations of other people's experiences that the Director of the B.B.C. chooses to vouchsafe to him.
Since that is so, we need not be afraid that television will convert the nation into degenerate indoor loungers, spoon-fed from the ether.

HONGKONG COMPANY
ORDINANCES.A DETAILED INDEX NOW
AVAILABLE.Thanks to the labours of Mr. W.
J. Hawker, A.C.I.S., there is now available for the first time a Guide to the Companies' Ordinances of Hongkong, in the form of a detailed index. Hitherto, except in respect of the 1911 Ordinance, which is duly annotated, it has been impossible for the business man, lawyer, auditor or Company official to secure a concise index, but the shortcoming is now remedied by the appearance of Mr. Hawker's little work, which is printed and published by the "South China Morning Post, Ltd."The volume, which contains over 130 pages, makes it possible for Company officials and others interested to see at a glance the appropriate provisions of the law which affect specific problems with which they have to deal, and it will be readily seen that a handy reference book of this type is invaluable.No incorporated Company should be without a copy of this volume, copies of which can be obtained from the publishers at $5 each.
The compilation of the work must have involved almost endless patience and research, and we can commend the publication as being a decidedly valuable contribution to the legal literature of the Colony.

WHO WAS—
ZENO?The founder of Stoicism, a system of moral philosophy
which has had as profound and penetrating an influence as any upon European thought, began life as a merchant.Zeno of Citium, in the island of Cyprus, was a buyer
and seller of merchandise,
who went to Athens in pursuit of business, and remained there for fifty-eight years in the pursuit of that to which business and everything else
is only a means—happiness.In the fourth century, B.C., Athens was the intellectual
centre of the western world,
and the keenest minds of the age were devoting themselves to the study of philosophy.
Zeno came into contact with the disciples of all cults, but none of their systems satisfied his heart and mind completely.Relinquishing business, he applied himself entirely to the study of morals and philosophy, and evolved a system of his own, which soon attracted numbers of followers. According to Zeno's conception of life, Virtue was the chief good and the highest end, and was to be obtained by living in concord with the laws of nature. A life so lived, though it necessitated strenuous self-discipline and abstinence from luxury, was bound to be happy, said he.His system is called Stoicism because he used to teach his disciples in a roofed colonnade or cloister, the Greek word for which is
"stoa."

JURY UNABLE TO CONVICT.

review on the question identification.

Parade Criticised.

Mr. Jenkin then gave a brief review of the Dickman case, pointing out that the Court held that if the case had rested solely on the identification parade it would have been quashed but, as it happened, there was other and sufficient evidence of identification.

He went on to say that in the present case, the only evidence of identification was that of the little girl. Mr. Sparrow had admitted in cross-examination that he stopped the girl and had executed himself by saying he considered it was his duty to stop a person who was identifying if he thought that person was moving too quickly along the line, and that he stopped the witness before each prisoner to make sure that the witness made a proper examination of each prisoner.

Counsel for the Crown realised the danger of that statement because, in re-examination, he asked Mr. Sparrow to explain himself, and asked him whether, when he used the word "prisoner" he did not mean all the men on the identification parade, but Mr. Sparrow reiterated all he meant by prisoners were the four suspected men.

In further interrogation by his Lordship, Mr. Sparrow, who did not appear to be altogether at home at that stage of his evidence, said it was possible that the girl had been stopped at one or other of the other 20 men.

A Faulty Parade.

"Taking the evidence as a whole you can only come to one conclusion. I do not make any suggestion against the officer. It was merely a mis-statement on his part but this parade was not conducted with that fairness which is demanded by the administration of justice. I say if these facts were to go before a Court of Criminal appeal, that Court would say that the evidence of this girl, however true and however it might be applied to three other men, should not be looked at as evidence at all because of what had taken place at the identification parade."

Counsel continued he would go further than that and say that the identification parade was faulty because with regard to at least one of the suspected men the girl was stopped and asked to say whether she recognised the prisoner before whom she was stopped and, having been asked to point out the man she recognised, she was taken by a portion of her garment and led up to the prisoner.

His Lordship pointed out that there was no evidence that the girl was stopped. The evidence was that she paused.

Evidence Read Out.

Counsel agreed but said that Mr. Sparrow did not tell them whether she paused of her own volition. In later evidence it was said that she was stopped.

His Lordship remarked he did not remember that. He did not think there was any evidence that Mr. Sparrow stopped the girl.

Mr. Jenkin: His statement in re-examination makes that clear "by prisoners I meant these four suspected men."

His Lordship read out various portions of the evidence, pointing out there was a general statement that it was his duty to do so but he did not actually tell her to pause.

Counsel continued he would put it that the conduct of that parade was highly unsatisfactory and that it would be a miscarriage of justice to let it go to the jury.

He continued "A more unsatisfactory parade one could hardly imagine. Who ever heard of a person being put up on a parade to conduct an independent identification, of having her garment taken and led up to the prisoner she is supposed to recognise? The men were standing close to one another in the line and there was the danger that the constable might lead that girl to a man at whom she was not looking. There is a possibility of that."

Fantastic Explanation.

"And the person who goes on to an identification parade as a witness to identify somebody, should that person have any pre-knowledge at all of the prisoners who are going to make up that parade? I say it is obvious they should not. This girl tells us, and the fantastic character of her explanation I shall not deal with at this stage, that she knew Yeung Chan would be on the parade and would be standing fourth."

Never mind how she came to know it. She tells us she did. Can that be satisfactory, my Lord. She tells us, moreover, she knew that there would be, in addition to Yeung Chan, two other men on that parade that she would be required to identify."

Mr. Jenkin said if there was to be any value attached to parades of that class, then they had to be conducted with the highest regard for the safety of accused and there should not be any possibility of suggesting, as he (counsel) did suggest, however unconscious it might be, that any unfairness whatsoever was created. In all the authorities his Lordship would see that unless there was evidence of the highest standard of fairness in the conduct of parades then they were an absolute wash-out. Mr. Jenkin read two quotations from the Lord Chief Justice's judgments as follows:

"There must be positive identification and not anything in the nature of acquiescence or suggestion. It is not sufficient that what is done should be fair; it must be manifestly clear that nothing was done which might seem to be unfair."

Counsel commented that he was not trying to dodge the issue but he would say that if the case went to the Court of Criminal Appeal it would be absolutely quashed.

Where Crown Failed.

His Lordship said he would agree to the extent that he thought there was evidence of some danger in the identification parade, but he did not think there was any evidence of suggestion or identification. He would have to warn the jury to deliberate that matter before accepting the identification. Also the girl had identified accused in Court.

Speaking for the Crown on this point, Mr. Fitzroy said he thought it was a matter that should go before the jury.

His Lordship indicated that Mr. Jenkin should open his defence, and in doing so he said he would ask the jury to say that the Crown had wholly failed to discharge the onus of proving beyond any reasonable doubt accused murdered the old man and added that he thought it should have been recognised before that morning.

He referred to Chief Detective Inspector Reynolds' evidence that he considered the girl to be wholly unreliable and remarked "I say you would not be justified in hanging a dog on the girl's evidence."

Counsel's Submissions.

Mr. Jenkin went on to deal with discrepancies in the girl's evidence, in the course of which he remarked "It can only create a feeling of disgust to think that you should be called upon to sit in that jury box and listen to evidence of that class, and as to bringing in a verdict of guilty, I suggest you will agree with me it is a travesty to ask you, upon the evidence of that girl, to bring in a verdict of guilty against these three men."

Later, counsel commented "Like the rest of the story it is a fake from beginning to end."

"If this girl cannot tell you a clean-cut story which carries conviction with it, then, of course, there is nothing else in the case and the Crown has not discharged its onus."

"She is absolutely and hopelessly unreliable. Except as a travesty, no one would classify this as evidence at all."

Girl's Mentality.

"The mentality of that is such that if she were to be put in the witness box to give her version of this affair six, nine or a dozen times, it is obvious that that girl's version would vary on every occasion and that, in the end, we should have such a jumble of it would be impossible to believe that she had ever been in the flat at all or knew anything about it."

Counsel suggested that the first thing any reasonable girl of 15 years old would have done would have been to raise an alarm. Instead of that she went into the old man's cubicle, obtained a money box which was the most valuable thing in the house containing about $5, and wrapped it up in her handkerchief together with two other boxes, her own property, and left them on the bed.

Then she went out quietly and reported the matter at the Police Station. Mr. Jenkin described it as inexplicable and her explanation ridiculous. Also the police had stated that they found the bundle on the girl's bed and took it to the Police Station, but this the girl had denied, saying that she took it to the Police Station herself.

Counsel commented "There is more behind this case than meets the eye."

Singular Behaviour.

Continuing, Mr. Jenkin dwelt on the girl's part in the identification parade, saying that she failed to identify the first accused. In the police court, she pointed out the second and third accused but was not very certain of the latter.

Mr. Jenkin said that it must have been a source of great embarrassment for her to find Yeung Chan in the Kowloon Police Court. It was very curious and inexplicable that the girl, after failing to identify the first accused on several occasions was able to identify him later. The only possible explanation, went on Mr.

Jenkin, was perhaps that she had to identify three men and not desiring to identify Yeung Chan, she had to identify the first accused to make the total three. But even in the case of the second and third, she was not very certain about the matter.

There was a very singular feature in the whole case. What about her attitude to Yeung Chan, the friend of the old priest, the nephew of one of the women who used to stay there, counsel asked? She told them that she did not know that Yeung Chan was arrested, but her behaviour during the identification parade was very singular.

Yeung Chan was among those who formed the identification parade, but not by a word or a flicker of an eyelid did she betray the fact that she knew him. What did the gentleman expect of an ordinary and rational being to do under the same circumstances? Would they not expect her to show a sign of recognition? She passed by without a word of recognition whatever.

Mysterious Case.

Mr. Jenkin said it was a very mysterious case altogether, but they were not there to help the Crown out of its difficulties. He himself had appeared in criminal cases in that Court off and on for about 18 years and this fact was known by Mr. Fitzroy and the learned judge, but he had seldom met with a more mysterious case.

The many difficulties the Crown had to contend with were almost unsurmountable, but they were not there to help to fill up the gap. The Crown had failed to establish their case and, that being so, he thought the case was at an end.

Mr. Jenkin then produced several charts of the teeth referred to in the previous hearings. He showed that one of the teeth found was an incisor and could not be fitted in with the missing molar in the mouth of the old priest. If it had been fitted in the molar gap in the old priest's mouth, it would have been blown out every time he sneezed. This showed that the tooth found did not belong to the old man.

Whose Tooth?

Then whose tooth was it, if it was not that of the old priest? Whose blood was it which was found in the No. 1 cubicle? Not on the clothes of any of the three accused was a drop of blood found.

Could there be another man concerned in whose identity had been screened from them? If there was, then this man must be laughing at them through the gap in his teeth! If there was, continued Mr. Jenkin, then he should be in the dock in the place of the three accused.

As he had said before, there was not a stain of blood on the clothes of any of the three men. He pointed out that there was a great deal of blood in the house and yet not a drop had been found on accused. Then there was the question of fingerprints. None had been found which could be brought home to accused. One of these facts alone might not be worth very much, but all together, they were very significant.

The first accused had through-out protested his innocence. It might be said that any fool could do that, but it had not been proved that he was any party to the crime and until that had been done he must be adjudged as innocent as any other man in Court.

In conclusion, Mr. Jenkin said that, if necessary, he was ready to put his witnesses into the box.

CELEBRATION AT THE CLUB LUSITANO.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE MUTUAL HELP ASSOCIATION.

In celebration of the fifteenth year of the local Portuguese Mutual Help Association, an "at Home" was held at the Club Lusitano on Saturday afternoon, when there was a large attendance. The history of the Association was outlined at some length by Mr. V. S. Soares, President. Among those present, in addition to the President, were Mr. C.A. da Rosa (acting Portuguese Consul) and Mrs. da Rosa, the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Mr. Leo D'Almada, senior, Mr. Leo D'Almada, junior, Mr. J. A. D'Almada, (secretary), naval representatives from the Portuguese cruiser, Adamastor, and members of the Catholic Union.

Mr. V. F. Soares spoke of the conditions prevailing at the time the Association was commenced, in October, 1913, when Europe was in the throes of the greatest war in history. The formation of the Association at that time, he said, was criticised because of the difficulties that had to be surmounted but the fact that it had carried on for 15 years and was still going strong sufficiently answered those critics.

Association's Work.

The speaker, in emphasising the good work the Association was doing, pointed out that the total amount of benefit paid out to needy Portuguese amounted to $51,500 while the capital of the Association now amounted to $62,500. Last year, he said, the Association received a donation of $250 gold from a lady in Macao and a similar donation was given by the Portuguese Minister at Peking (Mr. Antonio Bianchi).

Mr. Soares urged others to follow these examples, pointing out that the Association also gave financial help to members' sons to enable them to study at the University. In this connexion, he said, the expenses came to $4,000 annually. After expressing thanks to supporters of the Association in Hongkong, Canton, Macao and Shanghai, Mr. Soares urged all Portuguese to join and said if they had any criticisms or suggestions to offer they should be placed before the committee.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, in a short speech, dealt with the difficulties encountered in drawing up the Articles of Association, pointing out that there were no precedents to go upon, and he acknowledged the assistance given him by Mr. Silva Netto in the matter.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, junior, after congratulating the officials and supporters on completion of 15 years, expressed the opinion that the Association could be much bigger and urged all Portuguese to join and help in the good work.

Mr. Silva Netto expressed thanks to Mr. Soares for his comprehensive address.

The health of the Association was then drunk.

Founders Thanked.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, senior, and Mr. F. P. V. Soares, being principal founders of the Association, were proclaimed Honorary members amid applause.

During the meeting, letters of congratulation were read from the Governor of Macao, the Bishop of Macao, the Recreative Union, Macao, together with telegrams received from members in Shanghai and Canton.

Afterwards tea was served.

ARM CUT DURING SUNDAY SCHOOL TREAT.

The many friends of Inspector and Mrs. R. H. E. Marks of the Yau-mat Police Station will regret to learn that their eldest son "Bob" met with a nasty accident on Saturday afternoon, necessitating medical attention at the Kowloon Hospital.

The lad was attending a treat which was being given to the pupils of St. Andrew's Church Sunday School and was taking part in races which had been organised when he put his hand through the glass pane of a window. He received a nasty gash on his arm and was immediately rushed to Kowloon Hospital for medical attention.

RACING TRAGEDY AT BROOKLANDS.

DECISION TO CARRY OUT PLANS.

London, May 10.

The double twelve-hours race at Brooklands (so called because local residents insisted that the track should not be used at night, otherwise the race would be for twenty-four hours continuous) was resumed this morning in an atmosphere of gloom.

The drivers agreed that owing to its international importance it was impossible to abandon the event. This morning the marshal assembled the drivers and mechanics and warned them to look out for overtaking cars. It is hoped that this will prevent a repetition of yesterday's tragedy.

There was an outcry after Bernard Hieatt, competing for the motor cycle world's speed record was killed at Brooklands on May 3 when he skidded on the wet track.

Critics then declared that the race should be abandoned in the event of rain.

Accident Described.

Yesterday's event was run on a treacherous course amidst squalls of wind and some rain. The track was wet this morning when the race was resumed after a night of heavy rain.

Eleven of the twenty-five people injured in yesterday's crash are still in hospital. They include one woman who is seriously injured.

The people behind the railings, on seeing the crash, turned to flee. Many had no time to move, however, before the car crashed into them amid a whirl of flying metal, concrete and twisted railings.—Reuter.

The shock lasted for a minute and a half and the panic-stricken population fled from the town. The people are now camping in the hills. The Shah has donated £2,000 to the relief fund.—Reuter.

NANKING DEFEAT.

NORTHERNERS CLAIM BIG VICTORY.

Peking, May 10.

Military headquarters issued the following communique this afternoon.

"The Nanking forces, taking advantage of the partial concentration of the Second and Third Army Groups, which are composed of Yen Hsi-shan's and Feng Yushiang's picked troops, numbering each a hundred thousand, came out of their positions three days ago and advanced westwards, under Chiang Kai-shek's orders.

Here they were surprised by the troops covering the concentration and composed of the commands of Sun Tien-ying and Wan Hsuan-tsai. One Nanking division was annihilated, the ground being left covered with dead. Complete disorder now reigns on the Nanking front, quantities of prisoners being brought in.

The vanguards of the Second and Third Army Groups came into action yesterday. The original plan was that as soon as the concentration had been completed the two covering forces would open up and go to the flanks, but the situation has developed so rapidly that the advantage is being exploited and a general advance is occurring without redistribution."

Nanking Claims Victory.

Shanghai, May 10.

An official communique from Hsuehchow states that serious fighting between Wan Hsuan-tsai's troops and the Government forces broke out on Thursday evening in the neighbourhood of Yucheng on the Honan-Shantung border.

A battle royal was still raging yesterday when the rebels were steadily retreating westwards under heavy artillery fire from the Government forces.

Government aeroplanes are being despatched daily to bomb the rebels' positions. —Reuter.

Szechuan Assistance.

Peking, May 10.

The vernacular newspapers state that 47 civilians were killed and 28 injured during the bombing of Chengchow by the Nanking aeroplanes. A hundred houses were destroyed and the local merchants and gentry have decided to lodge a protest with Chiang Kai-shek, accusing the Nanking forces of inhumanity in killing non-combatants.

It is understood that the battle front runs from near Tangshan to Kuoyang, a distance of about seventy miles.

From Taiyuanfu it is reported that the delegates of the three leading Szechuan generals, Ten Hsi-hou, Tien Sung-yao and Liu Tsung-hou have arrived at Taiyuanfu and have expressed their readiness to send troops to attack Hankow in co-operation with the other anti-Chiang forces. —Reuter.

Mystery of Foreigners.

Shanghai, May 10.

According to reports circulating in Shanghai the railways are busy rushing troops to the front.

It is stated that four Russians have been arrested by the Government at Lungtan Station, between Chinkiang and Nanking. It is not known whether they are Com-

SOVIET AND LENA GOLDFIELDS.

COURT HOLDS AGREEMENT NOT CANCELLED.

Berlin, May 10.

The first sitting of the Court of Arbitration in the dispute between the Lena Goldfields and the Soviet was held to-day, when the President, Professor Stutzer, announced that the arbitrator appointed by the Soviet had failed to appear.

The Soviet had telegraphed, however, declaring that "the Lena Goldfields had in fact cancelled the concession agreement, thereby causing the Court of Arbitration to cease to exist."

A representative of the Lena Goldfields made a statement asserting that the Company had not regarded the concession as being cancelled and submitted that neither party was entitled to cancel it. The only authority empowered to do so was the Court of Arbitration.

The Court found that the concession agreement was still operative and that the jurisdiction of the Court was consequently not impaired.

It was also decided that the future sittings of the Court should be in public, the next to be held on June 28. —Reuter.

NEW FREE PORT.

SOUTH CHINA COMPETITOR TO HONGKONG.

Nanking, May 10.

A free port to be known as Chungshan will shortly be opened in South China at Tangchia-huan, a coastal village to the south of Chungshan in the Sun Yat-sen model district of the Kwangtung Province.

According to a decision reached by the State Council the free port will have a charter for sixty years.

Mr. Sun Fo states that Tangchia-huan is already connected by road with Macao and with Canton and that the depth of the harbour, which will be able to accommodate ocean steamers, will facilitate the development of the port into a first class harbour. —Reuter.

Effect on Colony.

Shanghai, May 10.

Japanese reports concerning Nanking's decision to open up a new free port in South China suggest that this will deflect trade from Hongkong. —Reuter.

munists, harmless citizens or Shansi emissaries.

A subsequent account states that four foreigners were seen being led through the streets of Nanking, not only roped together but also roped to their guards.

It is reported that the Nanking forces are doing their utmost to safeguard all foreign property in Nanking. —Reuter.

Mukden's Offer.

Peking, May 10.

Mr. Putnam Weale, in an article in the Peking Leader, states that Chang Hsueh-ling has agreed to furnish the Northerners with a reinforcement of 80,000 men if needed, together with all his heavy artillery and the service of the Mukden arsenal. —Reuter.

STEAM LAUNDRY EMPLOYEE.

PRISON SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF THREAD.

Engaged at the branch factory of the Steam Laundry in the manufacture of shirts, a Chinese, who
in private life conducted a tailor's
business, was furnishing his own trade with material from his employers, but his occasional dishonest acts were brought to an end when he was arrested by a Chinese detective in possession of four dozen reels of thread which had been stolen.

The man was taken before Mr.
Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning and
charged with stealing the thread
on various dates between January 1 and May 1. The defendant pleaded guilty.

Inspector Marks intimated that
the defendant, who was a sailor,
was found in the street opposite
the Gas Company premises in possession of the thread. On enquiries being made, it was found that the reels had been stolen from the Steam Laundry.

Mr. W. W. Hirst, Manager of the Steam Laundry, informed his Worship that there was no proof that the reels were stolen from his Company, but they had thread of similar brand. The defendant had been employed at the branch factory for two years and three months and had given satisfaction
in his work.

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Hirst said there were petty larcenies at
the laundry but they were hard to trace.

Taking into account the man's satisfactory work, his Worship passed sentence of one month's hard labour.

FIGHTING RAGES IN NORTH.

Tsinanfu half an hour before the departure of the train conveying Marshal Chiang, while a third train carrying the three hundred bodyguards of the President left half an hour after his departure.

For the time being the Kuominchun leaders are sparing Shantung which has not been molested despite the strong Kuominchun forces in western Shantung with headquarters at Tehchow.

It is understood that the whole Kuominchun Division under General Shih Yu-shan is in western Shantung. On the other hand, the concentration of Nationalist troops at Tsinanfu and Taochow is said to be equally strong.

Yellow River Flood.

The inundation of the Yellow River in Shantung is seriously affecting the fighting now in progress on some parts of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway. In some districts along this railway, the fighting forces are able to maintain only defensive positions,
being content with minor skirmishes.

AMERICANS KIDNAP FILIPINOS.

LABOUR TROUBLES CONTINUE IN U.S.A.

Kent (Wash.), May 7.

This place was the scene to-day
of another flare-up over Filipino labour when 40 American labourers visited vegetable farms and raided Filipino labour quarters.

Two hundred Filipinos had recently been imported to this section for vegetable packing, receiving 25 cents an hour for labour which Americans previously had been doing for 50 cents an hour.

Four Filipinos were kidnapped and dozens of others were driven away with threats of violence.

Edwin Dolle, one of the alleged raiders, was arrested, and two pistols were found on his person.

The raiders, some of them
reputed to be heavily armed, visited 30 places altogether.

In one case a dozen autos surrounded a Filipino camp. Four of the Filipino workers were kidnapped and the others forced to flee in their nightclothes and barefooted.

Two small schoolboys who were found breaking branches off trees in Peace Avenue, Homuntin, appeared before Mr.
Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning and
were later charged with damaging Government property. The lads were stated to have wanted
the branches to feed their birds.
His Worship pointed out that they were not allowed to damage the trees, and registered a caution.

BURMAH QUAKE DETAILS.

TIDAL WAVE AFTER TREMORS.

VERY HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED AT PEGU.

CITY DESOLATED.

Rangoon, May 6.
A terrific death toll; much larger than first reports indicated, was taken by the earthquake in Burma last night.

The chief loss of life and property destruction occurred at Pegu, north-east of Rangoon. At least 1,000 persons perished there, while the Rangoon correspondent of the London Daily Mail says that between 5,000 and 7,000 were killed. The damage there was increased by a subsequent tidal wave.

Indian Superstition.

Since the quake and the tidal wave occurred shortly after the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Indian civil disobedience movement, the superstitious Indian masses connected the disaster with the arrest and regarded it as having been sent as punishment.

Fire started in various parts of Pegu after the earthquake, in-cinerating many of those who were killed or disabled by the quake.
The fire was still smouldering today. As a part of the tragedy, a cinema collapsed, burying the spectators in the wreckage.

Rangoon Losses.

The loss of life at Rangoon was comparatively light, being about 40, but property was heavily damaged. The gold weather vane of the Rangoon pagoda, valued at $1,000,000, collapsed.

Pegu is the capital of a district of that name. It is located near the coast on the Pegu. Virtually its entire population of 19,000
was rendered homeless by the quake.

No Accurate Figures.

Officials here to-day were struggling amid the ruins of an earthquake rocked city to obtain accurate estimate of the loss of life and the extent of property damage resulting from yesterday's tremors.

The American Consul, Mr.
George Nearing, reported to the Department of State in Washington that 100 persons are known to be dead in Rangoon with possibility that the casualty list will increase.

No Americans are listed among
the known dead in Rangoon.

City in Confusion.

Over crippled communications lines, messages are beginning to come, telling of the horror and devastation at Pegu, Burma, 47 miles north of Rangoon. While unconfirmed reports continue to state that 6,000 persons lost their lives in the earthquake and fire there it is impossible to accurately determine the extent of the Pegu disaster.

The city is described as in a state of unutterable confusion.
Following a series of terrific earthquakes, which seemed to centre at Pegu, fire swept the city.

Many Buried.

Many are believed to be still buried in the ruins. Others are so seriously injured that the death toll will probably increase.

As far as is known here Pegu
has been completely destroyed.
Even Rangoon presents a scene of desolation. Buildings are in ruins and relief workers are attempting to search for bodies.
The population is panic-stricken,
fearing further earthquakes.

State of Panic.

Later messages state that many buildings have been demolished by the seismic disturbances. The communications over a wide area
in Burma have been destroyed by the quakes.

Thousands are living in a state of panic, fearing further tremors.
Because of the destroyed communications lines it is difficult to obtain adequate or accurate information as to the extent of the damage in the devastated area.

Many of the dead and injured
were trapped in falling buildings when the earthquake shook Rangoon. Others were struck by flying debris. Relief workers are searching in the ruins of building for possible victims.

A report has been made to the Police of the loss by Mrs. Hodgkinson of 4 Kimberley Villas, of a silk hand bag which was lost whilst the owner was travelling in a ricksha at the junction of Granville and Nathan Roads on April 25 last. The value of the purse, together with its contents,
was stated to be $15.

WOMAN SENT TO PRISON.

WIDOW WHO KIDNAPPED SMALL BOY.

Sentence of twelve months' imprisonment was imposed on a Chinese widow by Mr. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy
this morning, when the woman appeared on a charge of kidnapping
a small boy from 248, Tai Nam Street, Shamshuipo.

The defendant admitted that she had taken the boy out and said that she had handed him to a man whom she met in the street.

According to Detective Sergeant Meadows, the defendant and the complainant lived in the same house at 248, Tai Nam Street. The defendant was in the habit of taking the boy out and on April 30 the two went out together, but never returned. Later, the defendant was arrested at Kip Shok Mei on information received. The boy has not been seen since, and is believed to be in Canton.

After hearing the evidence, his Worship convicted the defendant and passed sentence of one year's imprisonment but intimated that if she gave any information which would lead to the recovery of the missing boy, a recommendation would be made for her sentence to be reduced.

SHANGHAI RACING SENSATION.

rush for the Mohawk Road gate people even climbing on to the walls, or any other point of vantage.

The Nonchalant Inspector.

Foreign and Chinese policemen came rushing through the throng from all quarters, and one cannot help drawing a contrast between their behaviour and that of the Chapel Volunteers and Chinese troops on a recent occasion elsewhere when a mafio had an argument with a policeman as to whether he could go through a certain gate or not. Not a pistol was drawn, not a shot was fired, not a whistle was blown, and not a man ran in any direction but in that
from which the bomb attack was reported. And they could not raise a "slogan" amongst them.

It was quickly over, of a sudden the outward stream turned and one encountered a nonchalant Scottish inspector straining his eyes to read the runners on the nearest jockey board. "What is it?" repeated he.
"Just a motor car tyre burst, and it happened that his exhaust went wrong at the same time and sent up a bit of smoke."

SUSPECTED THIEF INJURED.

FELL FROM HOUSE WHILE EVADING ARREST.

Another case of a suspected thief injuring himself whilst attempting to evade arrest is contained in a police report this morning, which states that Li Fuk, aged 15, unemployed, and of no fixed abode, has been admitted to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from injuries to his right shoulder.

He fell from the first floor of
No. 63, Connaught Road West, in an attempt, it is alleged, to escape from arrest after committing a larceny in the dwelling house.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS SALE.

Shanghai, May 10.
The North China Daily News
reports that the Advisory Committee recommend that the offer of the International Telegraph and Telephone Company for the purchase of the Shanghai telephones
should be accepted.—Reuter.

Following the failure of the complainant to appear in Court
on two occasions, an unemployed Chinese who had been arrested on a charge of larceny from the person of $2 was discharged by Mr.
Whyte Smith at the Kowloon
Magistracy this morning. Sub-Inspector Chester Woods intimated that neither the complainant
nor his witness could be found and it was suspected by the Police that the charge was a false one.

Rainfall totalling 1.22 inches was recorded for the 24 hours ended at 10 a.m. to-day. This makes the year's total 18.19 inches, against an average of 15.02.
